

A global union

UNI Global Union is the skills and services global union with 15.5 million members all over the world. It brings together about 1000 unions. Its aim is to meet the challenges of the globalization of world economies and create a truly global union capable of dealing with multinationals while defending and promoting workers interests at the level of governments, regional and international institutions.

In order to achieve this, we need to be stronger and work together.

Globalizing equality

The advances of technology and the increase in international commercial exchanges have modified the organization of work all over the globe. The increase in outsourcing, sub-contracting as well as temporary work has resulted in the inclusion of millions of workers into an unequal and unstable labor market where young, migrant and women workers are particularly vulnerable.

The Equal Opportunities Department organizes and develops policies aimed at ensuring that all workers have access to decent fair work with a decent salary. The work must be an occupation freely entered upon and respect legal, health and safety regulations and workers' human rights.

We are aware that each region and country faces different problems; consequently, we devise specific strategies in regular collaboration with our affiliates and partners. We also assist them develop policies that provide unions with tools to be change actors.

We fight together to achieve the same objective: globalizing equality.

Campaigns in the regions

UNI has 4 active regional offices which are important actors on their respective continents. They collaborate closely with UNI affiliated unions to ensure that the increasing integration of regional economies, of the European Union, MERCOSUR, ASEAN and the African Union, includes social and equality policies.

Furthermore, the women committees of each region deliberate and address specific issues relevant to their circumstances.
